

Where Do We Float From Here?

(2010 / n5MD)

Due to an overwhelming demand, Ruxpin's "Where Do We Float From Here?" (originally released in 2009 on n5MD's digital imprint Enpeg Digital) is being rereleased on CD. Ruxpin is Icelandic electronic music composer Jonas Thor Gudmundsson and "Where do We Float From Here?" is his 6th long play. Gudmundsson has released on labels such as Uni:form Recordings, Elektrolux and Mikrolux, had many compilation appearances and has done many remixes for artists such as Mum and Worm is Green. Ruxpin's sound is firmly planted in the classic braindance subgenre of IDM. Although, there is an undeniably Icelandic twist to the music and enough emotion to fit within the n5MD emotional ethos. "Where Do We Float From Here?" is 16 tracks of finely tuned, well crafted electronica from a highly underrated artist.

Ruxpin

Born in 1981, Icelandic electronic musician Ruxpin (Jonas Thor Gudmundsson) first started producing music at the age of 14. His first release the Mission EP was released on Thule Record's more chillout imprint Uni:Form Recordings in 1999. Later that year Uni:Form released Gudmundsson's first full length Radio. The highly acclaimed Elektrolux (Germany) imprint took notice of Radio and subsequently released his next two LPs (Midnight Drive & Avalon), alongside with one LP on their sublabel Mikrolux. In late 2006 he released Elysium which was also released via Elektolux's Mikrolux imprint. In early 2009 Gudmundsson's sixth full length entitled Where Do We Float From Here? was released digitally via n5MD's Enpeg Digital imprint. Ruxpin has since signed on to n5MD for the physical release of Where Do We Float From Here? as well as future releases by Gudmundsson's Ruxpin alias.
